schools for the county is 29, cost per pupil per month in teachers salary $2.09; average errollment per teacher in three and four room schools for the county is 28; cost per pupil per month in teachers' salary $2.70; average enrollment per teacher in Pamplin school 25; cost per pupil per month in teachers' salary $3 50; average enroll ment per teacher in Appomat tox High school 47; cost per pupil per month in teachers' salary $2.19. In the cases of the third and fourth room schools and the Appomattox were used to convey children to school, I have included cost of wagons in teachers salary. As to distribution in school funds, the State school fund is distributed per capita in school opulation; the district fund is ised in the district in which it originates; the county school und is distributed according to its needs. As to the number of teachers in the Pamplin school, will say that while they had seven teachers with a nine month erm, with 177 enrolled last erm, my recommendation to the Board was for five teachers and an eight month term. They would then have had better school facilities than any other section of the Clover Hill District or the whole county, excepting the Appomattox High Any other information as to the schools wanted by anyone, I will be glad to give it. Respectfully, N. R. FEATHERSTON, Superintendent.

Complete plans are being made at the office of the Virginia headquarters of the Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association to win a majority signup in every county, and a State-wide average of 75% of the production, by September 1st. Growers in every county are now urged to win more signers, and to aid this final drive with every effort to make this year the last in which tobacco farmers must dump tobacco on the market floors for prices like those which the Carolinians face today. With the opening of South Carolina markets, the prophesy of Aaron Sapiro to Carolina growers that they would see five cent tobacco if they failed to organize by July first, has now come true. Lumberton reported sales of 100,000 pounds at an average of five cents a pound at the opening market

PRESS OF THE STATE FAVORS AT UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

Charlottesville, Va., August 10 .school removal question has been overwhelmingly in favor of the retention of the medical school at the University of Virginia, according to the officials of the Charlottesville association favoring retention. The editorial of the Richmond Times-Dispatch of July 24th favoring the location of the consolidated school at Charlottesville has been reproduced quoted from, and favorably commented upon by practically every daily in the State, and a large number of the week-Nor has the press comment been confined to Virginia. Strong editorials deploring the threatened dismemberment of the University and favoring the retention of the medical schoo on its campus have appeared in the New York Sun, the Baltimore News, the Washington Post, and other large dailies, that look upon the proposed move to Richmond as "unfortunate." The point most frequently made by the Virginia editorial writers has been that Richmond has not made out its case-that there has not been broug moving the school from the Universi to Richmond. The Virginia press is practically unanimously of the opinion that the two prime considerations in Virginia and the University of Virginia itself, and, as some of the papers have pointed out, the proposed removal to Richmond does not promise special might impair the efficiency of both. The idea of dismemberment of the University which the proposed move to Richmond carries with it is abhorrent to many papers. "The people of Virginia want to build up, not tear apart, their state University." says the
